DISCLAIMER: Travertine and limestone often have mineral deposits and other inclusions that give every piece its unique patterns and colors. Variations in color, pattern, texture and/or veining are considered a normal part of any natural product and an order is considered accepted upon receipt. The actual stone delivered may differ from the sample or picture(s) shown and from future orders. Cracks stains, breakage, or fissures that may occur after you have accepted and installed the tiles while in good condition are considered the responsibility of the purchaser.
